

MICROLENS ARRAYS

ABSTRACT

Systems and methods for providing a light controlling structure, generally referred to as a microlens or microlens array. For example, in accordance with an embodiment of the present invention, a light controlling structure may be employed to provide a display screen.